Sibyls Windermere Weekend
16-18 May 2014

“Transfaith: An exploration of gender in the Church from the Margins”

We are excited to announce that the Revd Chris Dowd has agreed to lead this weekend and that he will be sharing insights from his research project into trans people's spirituality. Chris has worked as an MCC minister in Birmingham, and is now training as a URC minister at Westminster College, Cambridge.

His research into trans people's spirituality, which has been supervised by Birmingham theologian and poet, Nicola Slee, is based on an extensive series of interviews as well as wide reading. Chris will lead three sessions (one on Friday night and two on Saturday morning) as well as celebrating the Eucharist for us on Sunday.

There will be the usual time for walking and sightseeing on the Saturday afternoon, and later entertainment.

A session on the Sunday morning will provide updates about the Pilling Report on human sexuality and the proposed Facilitated Conversations, which it has recommended.

With Chris's input It should be a really fascinating weekend and we look forward to seeing you there. Please use the attached form to book your place.
